A SOUTHERN ROMANCE OF SLAVERY DAYS

LENGTH, 845 FEET. COPYRIGHTED 1908.

A Southern Planter is in money difficulties. A mortgage is due which he cannot meet. He is forced by the Money-Lender to sell out his slaves. Among those the Money-Lender sees a Mulatto-girl which he very much likes to own. The Mulatto-girl and her lover are separated, she being bought by the Money-Lender, the Mulattoboy by another man. Love, however finds a way. The boy escapes his master, saves his sweetheart from the hands of the cruel Money-Lender and brings her to freedom by swimming together across the Ohio River.

No. 126.

S. LUBIN
MANUFACTURER OF
Life Motion Picture Machines, Films, Slides and Stereopticons.
Lubin Building, 926-928 Market St., Phila., Pa.